Mr. STEVE BANNON'S/TRUMP' NEWS ON EBS BLACKOUT AND NESARA GESARA/QFS GROUP · Barron Trump · Admin

Let me share a story with you. A friend recently asked how long these programs have actually been in existence. To answer that, we need to hop into a "Time Machine" and take another journey back into the past.  Following the collapse of the Qing Dynasty in 1911, the Chinese Civil War erupted, spanning the years 1927 to 1950. This conflict resulted in the nation splitting into two distinct entities: Taiwan and China. The "Kuomintang" faction—the group from which the "Dragon Family" originated—transported a colossal amount of treasure back to Taiwan. These were the treasures of China's ancient imperial dynasties; indeed, this remains one of the primary reasons why China continues to seek the reunification of Taiwan. During the Second World War (specifically in 1938), China was invaded and occupied by Japan. The Japanese military seized gold from the Kuomintang, shipping it back to Japan or concealing it in various locations. The Japanese forces excavated tunnels to stash gold across Southeast Asia—including in Indonesia, the Philippines, and Thailand (via the Mae Sai route). Consequently, China began searching for a new, secure location to hide its remaining assets. At this juncture, the U.S. elite stepped in and offered their assistance. As a result, the entirety of the gold reserves was loaded onto a fleet of six U.S. Navy vessels and safely transported to the United States. The U.S. Federal Reserve—an organization often characterized as a criminal enterprise—pledged to return all the gold to China within 60 years. As collateral for these assets, they issued bonds to China; this move also served to peg the U.S. dollar to the gold standard, a policy subsequently formalized by the Bretton Woods Agreement of 1944 and the establishment of the International Monetary Fund (IMF). This system created a convoluted structure of fiat currency; yet, in reality, those who held the gold ultimately proceeded to lay fraudulent claim to its ownership. They forged documents to assert ownership rights over these assets, a maneuver that resulted in the global currency system being pegged to gold and the International Monetary Fund. In the late 1970s and early 1980s, the U.S. government officially recognized the administration of Mao Zedong. President Nixon visited China and, from that point onward, facilitated the country's integration into the global trading system. Mao's government demanded the repatriation of gold reserves that had been held in U.S. custody since 1938. However, the Nixon administration maintained that the stipulated 60-year holding period had not yet elapsed, though a partial return of the gold was eventually granted. By 1998, China intensified its efforts to reclaim the entirety of its gold reserves. It filed a lawsuit against the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, issuing a formal demand: "Return our gold to us, as the 60-year contractual term has now expired." The "Asian Dragon Family"—a clandestine Asian consortium—insisted on the return of their gold assets. The U.S. government ultimately lost the legal battle and was ordered by the court to repatriate the gold to China, with a deadline set for September 12, 2001. The logistical procedures for this gold repatriation were entrusted to Cantor Fitzgerald Securities, a brokerage firm headquartered in the North Tower of the World Trade Center. Crucially, the entire consignment of gold slated for repatriation was stored in the basement levels of that very same building. However, a clandestine Western cabal surreptitiously absconded with the gold and subsequently orchestrated the demolition of the World Trade Center towers—during the administration of George W. Bush Jr.—specifically to evade their obligation to return the assets. Prior to this event... the CIA had already secretly smuggled away and cached over 80% of the gold across various islands and remote locations throughout Asia. Consequently, the gold could not be located, triggering a frantic, desperate scramble to dispatch operatives to search for the hidden caches and devise a means to return the assets to their rightful owners.  🌟 Regarding the 9/11 attacks at the World Trade Center: all 600 employees of Cantor Fitzgerald Securities who were present and working on that fateful day perished. All of the gold stored in the underground vaults mysteriously vanished, prompting various parties to file lawsuits in the U.S. Federal Courts. The "Dragon Family" (#DragonFamily) first truly came to public light around 2009, amidst a highly sensationalized legal case involving the disappearance of a massive quantity of bonds from the United States—assets that belonged to the #DragonFamily.  🌟 At that time, Mr. Neil Keenan was entrusted to serve as the Dragon Family's representative, tasked with tracking down the stolen financial instruments and pursuing legal action to secure restitution and settlements across multiple jurisdictions. 🙏

Today, there was a bee swarm on the North Lawn of the White House.

Elon Musk is joining President Trump on a major trip to Beijing, signaling a notable shift after the pair's well-documented falling out in 2025. The Tesla CEO will be traveling alongside other corporate heavyweights like Apple's Tim Cook and BlackRock's Larry Fink as part of the U.S. delegation, as more than a dozen business leaders from Wall Street to Silicon Valley join the trip. Trump is preparing for a high-profile meeting with President Xi, with economic cooperation and corporate ties expected to take center stage in a rare show of business alignment alongside a presidential visit.

"I brought the 30 most powerful business leaders on the planet to these talks... and they all said yes. I didn't send the second-in-command or the vice president. I wanted the number one from each empire! Jensen Huang, Tim Cook, Elon Musk, and the other titans... the best in the world are here, right in front of you." Then, with his winner's smile, he sealed the deal: "They're here today to pay respect to you and to China. They come hungry to do business, invest, and create. From our side, it'll be 100% reciprocal." The message is clear: America isn't coming to beg. It's coming with the supreme bosses of global innovation to lay all the cards on the table. Dear Acting Attorney General Blanche and Director Patel:

For over a decade, I've raised concerns regarding alleged actions taken by former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, including her use of non-government email for official business, mishandling of highly classified information, potential campaign finance violations, and dubious Clinton Foundation financial dealings.¹ For instance, on May 17, 2016, I wrote a letter to then-Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Director James Comey raising concerns that many of the emails found on her non-government server blurred lines between the actions taken on behalf of the State Department, Clinton Foundation, and Teneco, a private firm founded by a former counselor to President Clinton.² Then, on July 6, 2016, I requested information from then-Director Comey regarding public corruption issues and the Clinton Foundation and questioned the Director on whether the FBI investigated the Clinton Foundation regarding former President Clinton's speaking fees from foreign governments while Hillary Clinton was Secretary of State.³ Further, on August 8, 2016, I wrote to

Say NO to Data Centers · Leslie Long ·

We are not powerless, even after a data center is approved. This was in another group and wasn't public, so I copied and pasted with their photo. "Festus, Missouri's city council snuck a $6 billion AI data center deal through closed doors, and voters made them pay for every single vote. The project would have leveled 360 acres of Missouri woodland and handed an anonymous Fortune 100 tech giant a facility so massive it threatened to strain the town's water supply and overwhelm its energy grid, all while generating noise and environmental impacts residents would live with daily. The council approved it through secret meetings, ignored public notice requirements, and dropped the development agreement on residents with no meaningful time to review it before their special session on March 30. This is what happens when local officials decide the public is an obstacle to work around rather than the people they actually serve.

The people of Festus did not take it lying down. One week later voter turnout surged a whopping 129%, and every council member who voted yes got wiped the 'F' out. Rick Belleville, a 70-year-old first-time candidate who had never run for office in his life, crushed an eight-year incumbent by more than 40 points! That is not a political rebuke, that is a message written in all caps. Residents then filed a lawsuit alleging the city violated its own code and Missouri's open records law by keeping months of back-channel communications with the developer hidden from the public. A recall petition targeting the mayor is also circulating. Festus is now part of a growing national pattern where communities are pushing back hard against AI infrastructure deals made without them, and increasingly winning."

VitalShots 🇺🇸 A MASSIVE VICTORY FOR FOOD FREEDOM 🇺🇸 The war on independent American farmers has officially ended. In a historic May 2026 directive, the MAHA administration has implemented the "Right to Raw" mandate, effectively halting all aggressive FDA raids on independent dairy farmers who provide raw, unpasteurized milk to their local communities. For 50 years, the medical establishment criminalized nature. They forced the boiling and pasteurization of milk, which completely destroys the bio-active lactase enzyme (the exact enzyme needed to digest dairy), annihilates the living probiotic bacteria, and denatures the immune-boosting proteins. They turned a living superfood into a dead, allergenic liquid. By protecting the legal distribution of Liquid Raw Milk, the administration is giving Americans back their greatest ancestral immune shield. Clinical research into the "Farm Effect" proves that children who grow up drinking unpasteurized raw milk have drastically lower rates of severe allergies, asthma, and autoimmune diseases. Raw milk physically coats your gut with living beneficial bacteria, training your immune system to tolerate environmental allergens rather than aggressively overreacting to them. 🇺🇸
THE VITAL PROTOCOL The era of food fear is over. Seek out raw milk exclusively from certified, pasture-raised, strictly tested local farms. Start with just a half-glass daily to allow your gut microbiome to wake up and adapt to the massive influx of living, biological enzymes!

NEW HYDROGEN STOVE USES WATER TO COOK FOOD INSTEAD OF NATURAL GAS

Factify · Follow

100 ml of water. 1 kWh of electricity. 6 hours of cooking.

Indian clean-tech company Greenvize has launched a hydrogen-powered cooking stove for both household and commercial use. The stove splits water into hydrogen and oxygen through Proton Exchange Membrane (PEM) electrolysis, using the hydrogen as cooking fuel directly. The only exhaust released during cooking is water vapor. According to the company, the unit requires approximately 100 ml of distilled or reverse osmosis water and about 1 kWh of electricity to produce enough hydrogen for up to six hours of continuous cooking. The stove can also be connected to rooftop solar panels, allowing it to operate off-grid.

A single-burner version is priced at around USD 1,128, and a double-burner version at around USD 1,610 (plus Indian GST). Greenvize is targeting hotels, community kitchens, and rural areas where reliable gas networks are less available.
