🔥 DONALD TRUMP'S VISA CRACKDOWN HAS ONE BURIED NUMBER: 18 MONTHS — WHAT CLOCK STARTED TICKING NOW?

When Deputy Secretary of State Christopher Landau said, "asylum isn't supposed to be a loophole to circumvent immigration law," he put a plain name on the scam polite Washington kept pretending not to see. The trick was simple. Come to the United States on a tourist visa, promise the visit is temporary, then file an asylum claim before leaving. That one move could mean renewable work authorization and years in the country while the courts drowned in backlogs.

Humberto Coral made the abuse impossible to ignore. The Colombian national arrived on a tourist visa in 2015, filed for asylum before it expired, and then spent years working in American communities while attacking federal enforcement in public. Now the Trump administration is moving to cancel up to 200,000 tourist and business visas used to sidestep legal immigration channels. Good. A short-term visitor visa was never supposed to become a backdoor work permit with better odds than following the law. A tourist visa is a visit. Turning it into permanent leverage over America was the fraud.

Pete Hegseth just picked Lt. Gen. Kevin Admiral—a three-star general with real combat credentials—to lead U.S. Army Europe. This is MERIT. No political games, no box-checking. Just the most qualified warrior for the job. General Admiral has proven himself leading III Armored Corps at Fort Hood. That's earned respect and battlefield experience—exactly what we need running our military's critical European command. He embodies what true diversity in the armed forces actually means: the best leaders rising to the top, period. And notice what the mainstream media is doing? Nothing. Complete silence. Why? When the banksters stole thousands of family farms in the early 1980's one of our major concerns was up to 4 generations of farming knowledge went with them. 😞 Now because of over-taxation and too many gov't regulations, bankruptcy is up 42% among farmers which is a national security danger. We must stop the banksters with their predatory interest from destroying America from within. 😞 Janet Lee Meisinger

RFD-TV The farmland market is entering one of the largest generational transfers of land ownership in history, largely driven by aging farmers and shifting demographics. Paul Schadegg with Farmers National Company says that experts have been discussing this topic since the 1990s. One of their assumptions, even back then, was about retirement. Experts predicted farmers would retire by age 65- - many now farming into their 70s. "The heirs are further removed from the farm every year," Shadegg states. These heirs will not be as educated on farming as the previous generation, according to some. This shift in ownership is going to impact who owns the land, who is farming it, and its value.

The FDA is an unconstitutional dept which has continually allowed poisons to enter our food supply. Abolish the FDA and give their annual $Billions to the farmers! Janet Lee

The Other 98% Unconstitutional 24 hour surveillance is what these invasive technologies do. We the people do not need them!

Janet Lee Journalist Benn Jordan was banned from Flock Safety's police surveillance conference for being press, so he flew a drone over it and filmed every cop, politician, and former senator inside. Before he ever got there, the company had also called his hotel and canceled his room in his name, without asking. Jordan is the security researcher Flock has every reason to fear. Over the past year he found dozens of the company's cameras sitting wide open on the internet with no passwords at all, close enough to watch live feeds, pull thirty days of stored footage, and in some cases delete it. Flock insists its network has never been hacked. Jordan simply typed in the address and watched. That is the company now assuring the rest of us that only people with something to hide worry about being watched.

Flock is not a camera company anymore. It paid more than $300 million for a drone startup and now sells police a drone built to read your license plate from two thousand feet in the air. A man with a hobby drone and a grudge did to Flock exactly what Flock sells to cops. They could not stomach three days of it. Their whole business rests on a single promise: constant watching keeps you safe, and if you have nothing to hide you have nothing to fear. They run more than a hundred thousand cameras across the country. They log where you drive and when you drive there. Then one citizen bought a ticket to watch them for a weekend, and they hid the location, barred the press, and reached into his hotel reservation to make sure he had nowhere to sleep. His refund, they told him secondhand, would arrive in ten days.

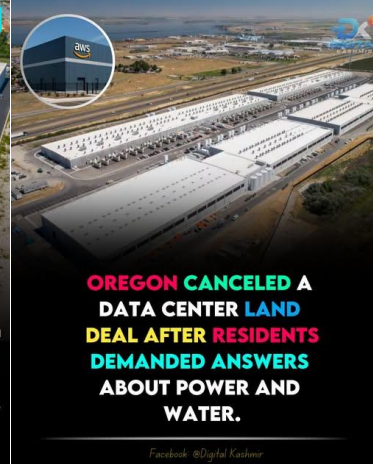

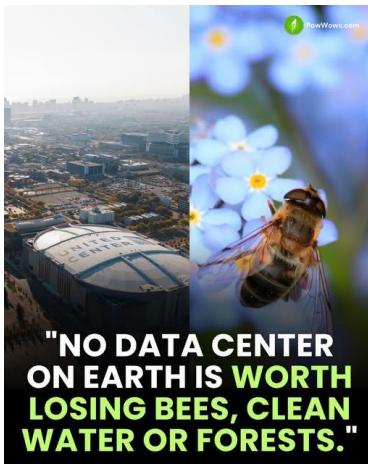

The drone caught familiar faces. Former Minnesota state senator Julianne Ortman and former Hennepin County sheriff Rich Stanek were both in attendance, now partners at a consulting firm that brags on its own website about helping Flock expand its reach into law enforcement. They came to pitch more cameras in the very weeks Minnesota towns are voting to suspend the programs and pull the cameras down. Public money bought their tickets. Public money buys the cameras. Public servants showed up on the public's dime and then demanded the one thing they deny everyone else: the right not to be recorded.

The footage is up. The people who keep telling you that only the guilty fear a camera spent a weekend hiding from a drone.

The City of Surprise, AZ canceled its contract with Flock Safety. On August 12, 2026, the city suspended use of its automated license plate reader (ALPR) system after a routine audit flagged an "anomaly." A police officer was placed on administrative leave pending investigation. The next day, Surprise notified Flock that it was terminating the contract and requested that the company's equipment (approximately 28 cameras) be deactivated and removed. Multiple local outlets confirmed the cancellation. Councilmembers and city officials publicly supported ending the partnership amid broader scrutiny of Flock systems in the Phoenix area. THE STORM OPENED A RAINBOW GATE OVER LADY LIBERTY. 🌈🌍

A powerful storm rolled across New York Harbor, but instead of a single rainbow, the sky seemed to split into two towering walls of color rising on either side of Lady Liberty. This breathtaking effect can happen when sunlight breaks through one side of a storm while rain and mist continue falling through the other. Millions of tiny water droplets act like prisms, separating sunlight into brilliant bands of green, blue, violet, yellow, and orange.

What makes this scene feel so surreal is the symmetry. The Statue of Liberty stands perfectly between the glowing curtains, as if nature itself opened a radiant pathway through the storm. For a few unforgettable moments, New York looked like it belonged in another world.

🇺🇸 SOME PEOPLE ARE BURIED WITHOUT FAMILY. THESE TEENAGERS MAKE SURE THEY'RE NEVER BURIED ALONE.

At Great Lakes National Cemetery near Detroit, some funerals have no family waiting, no friends standing nearby—only a funeral director, a priest, and a few teenagers in white gloves. 🇺🇸 They are part of the St. Joseph of Arimathea Pallbearer Ministry, a student-led program created in 2015 at University of Detroit Jesuit High School.

Their mission is simple: No one should be buried alone. At their very first service, the students carried the caskets of three homeless veterans whose remains had gone unclaimed. Dressed in matching suits, they carry the caskets, stand beside the graves, and pray for people who might otherwise have been forgotten. 🙏 One student put it beautifully:

“We represent the family that is not here—and that is a privilege.” These young men aren’t related to the people they bury. They don’t know their stories. They simply choose to show up when no one else does. And perhaps that is one of the most powerful forms of kindness there is. Because dignity shouldn’t depend on whether someone has people left to mourn them. 💙

Sometimes, being a hero simply means showing up.
