Trump Pardons Alaskan Truckers on Stage for Fixing Engines: "How Sick" to Jail Men Who Just Wanted Their Trucks to Run

President Trump stopped a campaign rally in Wasilla, Alaska cold on October 13 to deliver full and unconditional pardons to hardworking truckers who had been targeted by the Biden Justice Department for modifying diesel engines. The men had removed emissions equipment that made the trucks inefficient, expensive, and unreliable in Alaska's brutal cold, where a stalled rig can strand a driver in life-threatening conditions. Trump called the prosecutions a direct attack on the people who keep the country moving. "They want to put them in jail for ten years because they fixed an engine. How sick," Trump told the crowd. "Now, if you murder somebody, no problem. Unless a Republican does the murdering, then it's, you know, the electric chair, right? If you murder somebody, if you brutalize somebody, you can do anything you want. But if you fix an engine… These guys know more about fixing engines than the people that they have to pay a lot of money to." when you undo that, you therefore send fumes into the air, so we're going to put them in jail for ten years." After

He then explained the government's real objection: once the environmental controls come off, the trucks run better. "If you allow people to fix the engines, they're going to take all of the environmental crap that makes it bad, makes it inefficient, makes it expensive, that they're going to undo that. And when you undo that, you therefore send fumes into the air, so we're going to put them in jail for ten years." After reviewing the cases, Trump announced he was wiping the records clean for three of the men right there on stage.

The president also delivered the line that brought the crowd to its feet. "When you give somebody a pardon, they say that means… that means you're as clean as a newborn baby's ass. Now, I never understood that. Why is that so clean? But they felt that was the definition of cleanliness. And so you know what we'll do? We'll accept it." He then signed the documents in real time, noting that Joe Biden "would be unable to do" the same thing "because he was unable to sign his signature. He would have to send it out for an auto pen." Turning to one of the men, Trump called out, "Zachary! Come on." After the signature, he added, "Wow. What an honor. I love doing this stuff." The moment underscored a consistent theme of the Trump presidency: when regulators treat working Americans like criminals for solving practical problems, the response is not more paperwork. It is a pardon, delivered in person.

Vedomosti: How Saudi Arabia could respond following Houthi attack on Riyadh airport On October 11, the Saudi authorities suspended operations at King Khalid International Airport in Riyadh indefinitely, immediately following the deadliest airstrike on the facility since the start of the Middle East crisis earlier this year. According to media reports, missiles struck Terminals 3 and 4, causing serious damage to the airport and prompting the collapse of part of the roof onto people inside. The Saudi General Authority of Civil Aviation reported that 12 people were killed and 309 civilians were injured. While it's widely believed that the Houthis of Yemen's Ansar Allah rebel group were behind the attack, they have not yet officially claimed responsibility.

Conservative Americans

Stephen Miller says the scale of welfare fraud is so massive that eliminating it alone could balance the entire federal budget. That is his estimate, not a finished audit. The claim still forces the obvious question: how much of the deficit is simply theft that never gets stopped?

Welfare programs exist for people who qualify. When fraud reaches the size Miller describes, the missing money is large enough to matter at the national level. Balancing the budget by cutting waste instead of raising taxes on workers is the practical path. Every dollar stolen is a dollar that cannot fund legitimate benefits or reduce the debt. Miller's point is that the fraud volume itself is the lever. Remove it and the math changes without new spending or new levies.

Taxpayers are entitled to a system that pays only what the rules allow. If the scale is anywhere near what Miller says, then enforcement and recovery become budget policy, not a side issue. Stop the fraud. Keep the money with the public that supplied it. The estimate is his. The priority of protecting the treasury is not.

TOM HOMAN JUST EXPOSED THE TRAITORS INSIDE THE FBI The people who LEAKED the ICE raids…
the ones who tipped off Tren de Aragua gang members and let dangerous criminals escape…were INSIDE THE FBI.
Not some random low-level employee. BIDEN-OBAMA HOLDOVERS. Deep-state saboteurs still embedded in the Bureau who are actively working to protect illegal alien criminals and undermine Trump's mass deportation agenda.
Homan's message was crystal clear: They will lose their jobs. They will lose their pensions. And they are going to JAIL.
But losing a job isn't enough. These Biden-Obama holdovers have been poisoning the FBI for years. They must be REMOVED. PURGED. CLEANED OUT. Every last one of them. This is what draining the swamp actually looks like. No more free passes.
No more protecting the cartel's friends inside the government. FIRE THEM ALL. CHARGE THEM. MAKE AN EXAMPLE OUT OF EVERY LAST HOLDOVER WHO BETRAYED THIS COUNTRY. Share this everywhere. Let the deep state feel the heat.
The FBI will never be trusted again until every Biden-Obama operative is GONE.

Engineering Facts

Canadian physicists have officially unveiled a prototype cold fusion reactor capable of producing clean, continuous energy at near-room temperatures — without harmful radiation or nuclear waste. Unlike traditional fusion that requires millions of degrees of heat, this new system uses magnetic plasma confinement and advanced quantum catalysts to trigger stable fusion reactions in a small, controlled chamber. The result is a steady release of energy that can be sustained indefinitely — a feat long considered impossible. If successfully scaled, this could mean: - Unlimited zero-emission energy for cities, factories, and vehicles - No radioactive waste or meltdown risk - Drastically lower energy costs and carbon-free power generation

Scientists are calling it the "Holy Grail of clean energy" — a technology that could end the world's dependence on fossil fuels and completely transform the global energy landscape.

Though it's still in early testing, the Canadian team says the prototype's success proves that safe, sustainable fusion can exist outside of billion-dollar reactors or extreme lab conditions. The dream of limitless clean power may finally be becoming a reality.

Find Richard Halliday Follow SEC HEGSETH JUST ADMITTED THE BARRACKS ARE BROKEN — AND RICHARD HALLIDAY WAS MURDERED INSIDE ONE

Secretary of War Pete Hegseth has officially appointed Medal of Honor recipient Dakota Meyer as Senior Advisor for the Barracks Task Force. Meyer will go installation by installation, identify what's broken, and fix it. Hegseth's words: "Our warriors deserve nothing less." That is a clear public admission at the top that the barracks system itself has problems.

The Fort Bliss whistleblower Soldier Richard Halliday was forcibly removed from his barracks room, taken to the basement in Building 2479, and murdered on an American base. His remains were stolen, trafficked across the border into Juárez, and the case was buried. He was reporting cartel-infiltration on base, trafficking networks operating inside and around the installation. The barracks are where soldiers live. They have nowhere else to go, or they are AWOL.

The Barracks Task Force is starting now. Richard Halliday's file has been open for years. The same installations that need fixing are the ones that lost a whistleblower in his barracks to the cartel and never produced his body.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW. Get $1,000 for every American child born between January 1, 2025 and December 31, 2028.

The account is fully in your child's name. You are the sole custodian until they turn 18. Let it grow on its own or add up to $5,000 per year to maximize growth.

Manage your Trump Account with ease. Your child's account grows with them.

Thanks to the power of time, their balance will continue to grow regardless of whether you continue contributing or not. If you'd like, you can add up to $5,000 per year for each child.

What you need to know about Trump Accounts

The new investment account program for children launched on July 4. Kids born from 2025 to 2028 are eligible for a $1,000 contribution from the government.

They will offer tax-advantaged savings for millions of Americans under 18. Babies born from 2025 to 2028 will get a huge perk — the federal government will put $1,000 into their accounts. Major companies are also pledging contributions.

A senior Treasury official said Thursday that more than 6 million children have been registered for the accounts, with 1.4 million of those eligible for the $1,000 government seed money.

What are Trump Accounts?

Trump Accounts are tax-advantaged investment accounts for children under 18. Babies born from Jan. 1, 2025, to Dec. 31, 2028, can get $1,000 from the Treasury Department to kick-start their accounts. Only U.S. citizens are eligible.

The program was created under Trump's One, Big, Beautiful Bill Act, which was signed into law on July 4.

The government said the money will be invested in low-cost funds that track the S&P 500. It said that just the $1,000 deposit could grow to an estimated half a million dollars or more by retirement age.

Who can contribute?

Parents, guardians, friends and companies can all add money to a child's Trump Account. Kids can receive up to $5,000 per year — a limit that will adjust for inflation starting after 2027. A maximum of $2,500 can come from employers every year.

A growing number of companies, including JPMorgan Chase, Intel and Steak 'n Shake, have promised to contribute an additional $1,000 for employees' children born from 2025 to 2028 to match the government's contribution. Go to www.TrumpAccounts.gov
